Re: September 19, 2013 Board Meeting

We accomplished a lot at our Board Retreat on September 7. We did some excellent thinking about our roles as Board Members and how we work together, with our Senior Minister and the Congregation to advance our mission, Visionary Goals, and Strategic Plan. I am including the notes from our meeting, which I sent out earlier, in the Board Packet. Jill and Dick will have their summaries to us in time to review for the meeting. A lot of great ideas flowed that day that we do not want to lose. I want us to use the majority of our meeting this month to complete our process of setting Board Goals for the year.

Some great work is going on in our committees. Our October meeting will emphasize reports and action items that are products of a productive summer and fall of committee work.

We have a report from the Foundation Board on the agenda for this month. There will be quarterly reports from the Foundation this year to help keep us both abreast of each other’s work.

Please bring your calendars to the meeting as we will be setting dates for our Working Sessions. Also, we failed to determine who will bring treats and do a reading for our meeting. Any volunteers?

See you all on the 19th.

Reverend Schroeder had provided in advance a comprehensive document addressing concerns expressed by the Board regarding the racial justice work that has been proposed for the coming year. This document was also incorporated in the June Board Packet. These concerns revolved around how it is linked to the Strategic Plan and how congregational support has been expressed over the last six months. There was also concern about its impact on staff and program leadership. Justin walked the Board through his report which included annotated excerpts from the Strategic Plan. He highlighted several of the activities that are planned and how they constitute a renewal of our commitment to social justice. He also pointed out how all of our social justice programs will be seen through a racial justice lens in the future.

The Strategic Plan refers to the Unity Center for Youth Leadership, (UC), which has effectively ended as a program of the Church. Justin pointed out how the racial justice focus of UC is being replaced, in a sense, by our commitment to this initiative. Justin sees this racial justice work requiring 70-100 hours of his time in the coming year [this is also a key component of Debra Rodgers’ work; Jen Crow and Ruth MacKenzie will be also be involved; their time commitments will be less. He likens this to the time commitment last year to the search for Jen Crow, and the strategic planning activity of the previous year. Craig opened the floor for discussion and feedback.

David Bach began his comments by saying that he is committed to participating in the three session training program this fall. He also suggested that at least an hour of our fall retreat be committed to a presentation of the program by consultant Heather Hackman. Lark Weller had questions about the total cost of the program beyond this year, and hopes that Deb Rodgers will share what she learned from her research about how other churches have approached this topic. Lark also pointed out how this training should teach us how to think how we are in relationship with our entire diverse community, not just through the racial lens. Lark plans to participate in the trainings this fall. Craig Bishop thanked Justin for the detailed presentation. He also expressed concern about the long-term cost in financial and human resource terms. Pam Vincent expressed excitement about the program and appreciates the presentation that Justin prepared with components typical of a business plan. She also will participate this fall. Karin Wille expressed resource concerns, and also a concern about staff commitment to the program. Her remaining questions were about the process of introducing this initiative, and she expressed her hope that lessons have been learned. Justin added that he or we should have called out the significance of the program earlier in the process. He agrees that lessons have been learned and that he will strive for better communication in the future. However, it is unpredictable when circumstances may compel him to respond with prophetic leadership, and he believes that this is part of his calling. David Leppik appreciates gravity with which we are assessing this issue, and suggests that we may need a revision of the Strategic Plan to recognize this work as a priority of the Church. There was brief discussion as to whether this was necessary and what process might be used to draft such a revision. Dan Berg expressed his appreciation for the detail and hard work that went into this presentation. He affirmed Justin’s observation that this work picks up where the UC program left off in its focus on racial

<th>Victoria Schanen</th>

<tr>
<td>Craig Bierbaum teed up the presentation by Victoria Schanen, the recently elected chair of the First Universalist Church Foundation. Victoria explained her experience with the Foundation, which includes an earlier term 6-8 years ago. She characterized the Foundation as being in transition; they have just reinstated a bi-annual grant making schedule, which had been suspended for several years as the entire financial commitment of the Foundation had been applied to UC. They will announce the first application round with invitations to organizations focused on services to and leadership opportunities for youth, young adults and disadvantaged communities. Grants will be available to outside organizations but groups with a history of working with the Church will have an advantage. There will be $60-70,000 available for grantmaking each year.</td>
<td></td>
<tr>
<td>The Foundation will present a report to the Board on a quarterly basis. The Board and Justin expressed great satisfaction at the evolution of this relationship and Victoria also confirmed that the Foundation Board is energized and excited. They recently had a joint meeting with the Faith in Action team of the Church. They are committed to improved and regular communication with the Church and the congregation, including collaboration with the “share the plate” program of the Church. They also intend to reach out to other foundations in the community.</td>

<tr>
<td>Finance Committee Report</td>
<td>Craig Bishop reported in Paul Robinson’s absence, and referred the Board to the Finance Committee report in the Board Packet. The next committee meeting will be in August, when the proposed committee goals will be reviewed, refined and approved. The Committee considered “financial review” proposals from two vendors. The decision had been made earlier to undertake a financial review rather than a full audit of the 2012-13 church year. The Committee recommends that we engage MAP for Nonprofits for this task, at a cost of approximately $2,000. They will begin the review after the close of the fiscal year, and present the report within 90 days.</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Executive Session</td>
<td>The Board voted to enter a Board-only executive session at 8:49 pm. The purpose of the executive session was (1) to approve the minutes of the May executive session, and (2) to discuss the Board’s consolidated Senior Minister evaluation, which will be presented to Justin by Craig Bierbaum and David Bach. The executive session ended at 8:55 pm; Board meeting resumed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meeting Review/ Wrap Up</td>
<td>There was discussion about record keeping protocols and best practices. The Secretary currently retains copies of executive session minutes and these will be passed to the incoming Secretary, Pam Vincent, along with other appropriate documents. There was agreement that a secure repository of Board documents should be established, either physically at the Church or by secure electronic means. This discussion also led to discussion of the way Board Packets are assembled and distributed, with hope for a new, improved system for the new year. Craig Bierbaum offered words of appreciation as his term as President and a member of the Board comes to an end, including acknowledgement of the contributions of the other departing trustees, David Leppik and Craig Bishop.</td>

<td>Workplan for the year (see attached grid, as well, which places the goals for this year within the framework of the Strategic Plan)</td>
<td>At our staff two retreats in August (Leadership Retreat and All Staff Retreat), the staff and I spent a great deal of time reviewing the Strategic Plan, the ministry we did last year, some of the challenges and successes that we had, and how best to move forward in alignment with the Strategic Plan in 2013-2014. We were in agreement that although we are growing as a congregation, we are still very much in a season of “consolidation” at this point in time. (And by consolidation, I mean that we must focus on creating systems and infrastructure that allow us to support the growth we’ve experienced.) Thus, our focus for next year, grounded in the Strategic Plan, became quite simple and straightforward:</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

1) Ensure a successful launch of our Racial Justice Commitment. Indicators of success will be 1) a strong Racial Justice team that helps guide this work forward, well attended Racial Justice trainings (our first training is Oct 5, Nov 2, and Nov 23, and is full), and strong, clear communication about the theological and religious underpinnings of this work (Justin and Heather Hackman will co-lead the service on Sept. 29th outlining these dimensions and there are several articles in the Sept. Liberal, as well.)

2) Ensure a successful experience with the “House that Love Built.” Indicators of success include clear and strong communication, church wide participation, and the church raising the $60,000 that we’ve committed to Habitat for Humanity. Jen Crow is the lead on this project and she and her team have a well thought out timeline and communication strategy in place. We’ve already secured nearly $5000 in gifts.
3) Implement ACS (member database). Diane Gavere, our Director of Operations, has previous experience with database implementation and conversion. We are creating a timeline for this project this year. In mid to late fall, we’ll convert the membership side of the database. On the first of the New Year, we’ll be converting the contributions part of CMS.

4) Begin to create a comprehensive adult ministry program and leadership/spiritual leadership development program. This involves re-naming and expanding the ways that our “Small Group” ministry program functions. Instead of Small Groups, we’re re-naming them “Community Circles,” and this year we will begin to roll out a variety of Circles that people can participate in, some that are linked with the sermon content, and some that are not. We’ll have Community Circles (formerly known as Small Groups), that will be open to all, and some that will have a particular focus, like “Parents of Young Children.” We’ll have “Care Circles,” such as “Grief Support Circle,” and we’ll have “Practice Circles,” where the content is very much focused on deepening a particular spiritual practice, or content area. Making our big church feel like a small, close-knit community starts by joining one of these Circles. Participating in any one of these Circles is itself a form of spiritual practice - a practice of listening, learning, discernment, and open-heartedness. Each Circle of 8-10 people will gather with a trained facilitator as participants offer spiritual companionship to one another.

This year, we will also begin to develop and train Circle leaders, and other leaders in the church, in intentional and spiritually grounded leadership.

Creating a clear adult ministry and spiritual development program seems particularly important as we have over 1000 members, and without such structures, members and friends can get “lost” in the largeness of the church.

Indicators of success will be a clear adult ministry program that involves a greater number of congregants, that both new and long time members are plugged into our adult ministry program, and that are our leaders understand their leadership as “spiritual leadership.”

5) Clarify procedures and practices and begin to focus on our core ministry areas this year. Given that we are understaffed in our administrative and facility departments, I believe that we can best support our staff and ministry by saying “no” to some things, for at least for this year. Specifically, this means that we will saying “no” to all new rental inquires. Though we’ve already secured $10,000 more than budgeted in rental contracts, we are saying “no” to any further rental requests. Additionally, for this year, for all new wedding requests (not ones already booked), we’ve decided not to offer First Universalist as a wedding reception site. We’ll continue to do weddings for members and non-members alike. A reception is often on a Saturday evening and can go until 10 or 12 at night. Our facility crew is often in the building until 2 or 3 a.m. in the morning, and then needs to begin Sunday morning set up by 4 or 5 a.m.)

We’re also looking at programming and activities that we can pull back on. As an example, we exploring the possibility of not offering the Global Gift Fair this December, as our primary focus will be on the “House that Love Built.” Timely communication and involvement of key lay leaders are a critical part of this process.

We’re exploring what other programs and activities we might pull back on this year, so that we can focus on core ministry areas and initiatives.

Finally, Heidi Johnson and Diane Gavere are doing a comprehensive review and update of all building usage policies. Currently, we do not have policies that clearly spell out what constitutes a church group, or what we charge church groups that charge for classes, etc. etc. There are a lot of grey areas in how the building gets used and by whom. This lack of clarity creates an incredible amount of confusion and extra work for our Administrative staff. Thus, in October, we will be alerting all of our current building users about this review and the upcoming update of policy that will take effect Jan 1, 2014. We also be engaging with various groups to understand their needs and relationship to the church’s ministry.

| Inform | Office Manager and Office Assistant and Volunteer Coordinator Position Changes | While Heidi Johnson came to us to be our new Office Manager she found a very different work load then we had advertised in the position; she took responsibility for that workload, and immediately began to help us re-imagine how this position could look, rather than getting frustrated, burned out, and quitting.

It was clear that the events/building use portion of the portfolio was a far bigger piece than previously realized. In an effort to better align duties in the department, the Director of Operations has realigned some pieces of the Office Manager and the Administrative Assistant Positions. This will allow the Office Manager to concentrate her efforts more effectively. For example, she has already written building use policies and pricing structures; she’s improved our internal communication systems, and she’s been integral in team building between the Program and We have a new Director of Operations who has a different vision for how the Operations of the church can function. The allocation of resources made by the previous Director have been rethought, and where temporary workers have been used in the past couple of years, we believe that only a portion of that is necessary; consequently, we are reallocating some of these funds to support permanent staffing. We are not increasing the bottom line of the church budget, either this year, or next; we’re simply reallocating how these resources are spent.

Related to Policy D. Communication to the Board and Congregation. Inform the board in a timely manner of any relevant trends, issues, or events affecting the health of the organization.”

On Oct. 20th, during both worship services, we will have a practice fire drill, giving children, youth, and adults the opportunity to practice what we would do in the event of a real fire or other crisis.

The Rev. Gretchen Haley is a colleague from Foothills Unitarian Church in Fort Collins, CO. (That’s my home church!). She’s very interested in learning about large church ministry, Policy Governance, and more, and during her visit, she’ll be attending staff meetings, Management Team meetings, the Board meeting, etc.

I have begun to plan with Jen Crow about sabbatical coverage and how it will happen. In November, Jen will begin meeting with the pledge team, and I think it would make sense to invite her to our Nov. or Dec. Board meeting. Ruth MacKenzie has agreed to step into a stronger pastoral care role during the sabbatical time (we'll use some of the sabbatical money for this purpose) to relieve Jen of this responsibility. At the November Board meeting, I anticipate being able to share with the Board a map of what will be covered and how during my sabbatical time.

How do we as Board members act as spiritual leaders as we lead this diverse spiritual community?

Extension of our mission statement – Give, receive, and grow more fully into Love’s people.

Our practices:
• Welcoming/affirming/protecting the light in each human heart
• Acting boldly in the world on our values
• Listening deeply to where Love is moving/calling us next

What are the norms for how we work together, with the Senior Minister and with the Congregation within our evolving policy governance model?

Board and Senior Minister:
• Our Board Covenant provides a great starting point (see Governance Policy Handbook (GPH))
• A spiritual practice we do as a board
• A place to co-create and lead together
• A space for all to participate
• Sharing information on important operational issues, even those outside of board governance responsibility
• No surprises
• Senior Minister sharing what excites him and staff (Things the Board will mostly “want to know”)
• All assume the best intentions
• Exercising?
• Confidentiality
• Future visioning
• Learning together

Board and Congregation:
• Monthly articles in the Liberal
• Regular reports to the congregation
• Dinners with the congregation

Jill and Dick will be summarizing our discussions on future challenges and opportunities and report them separately.
