Worship Theme for Summer: Sources

Within the pores and cracks of the earth fresh water gathers. Sometimes source water rises to the surface on its own accord. Sometimes you have to dig to find it. In either case, water feeds the body and sustains the soul. So too, sources for our spiritual life act in much the same way, gathering in the pores and cracks of our lives. Sometimes, a source of strength is easy to access. Sometimes you have to dig to find the well of faith that will sustain. This summer we explore sources: sources of faith, love and hope.

Join Us On Our Racial Justice Journey! Fall 2015

You're invited to apply to participate in the next 24-hour racial justice training led by Dr. Heather Hackman this fall!

Dr. Hackman's approach is multi-faceted, and provides a foundation for shifting our entire "lens" toward racial justice, as we understand the ways that race, racism, and whiteness work in the world around us. We'll be partnering with members from Judson Memorial Baptist Church in this training, as they deepen their commitment to becoming a faith community committed to racial justice. There is room for 30 First Universalist participants in this training, and we expect these spots to fill up fast. For additional information, visit our website at:

Offering: Racial Justice

Our offering today will support our Racial Justice learning, and in particular, the trainings we're offering by Dr. Heather Hackman. If you're interested in participating in the next 24-hour training, offered this fall, please apply online: <http://firstuniversalistchurch.org/upcoming-rj-trainings>

About Our Guest Preacher:

Andrea Johnson is a Master of Divinity student at United Theological Seminary pursuing ordination in the Unitarian Universalist Ministry. She is active on the Pastoral Care team and Racial Justice initiatives here at First Universalist Church. She lives in Minneapolis with her husband and three children.

About Our Spoken Word Artist:

Hortense Macleod recently graduated with an M.Div from United Theological Seminary. She has been actively involved at the Northfield UU fellowship.

Musical Notes from Jerrod Wendland:

How do we re-interpret old forms for our modern world? Do we stay within the limits set down so strictly by our forebears? Do we overturn the old forms entirely and create our own? Or do we use the old form to parody and critique the things we don't like about it? Charles Koechlin (Cake-Lan) wrote a series of Sonatines in which he seems to combine his very modern sense of harmony with a naive melodic style: part Gregorian chant, part half-remembered children's song. It's as if he's saying: I remember when I didn't need anything more than this, though I feel quite differently now.
